Families and health care providers are increasingly collaborating on their own health–care needs and advising on how to improve care delivery.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com