

Coping mechanisms are like little tools we use to deal with stress and difficult situations. They help us manage our emotions, reduce anxiety, and find healthier ways to cope with challenges.