We can benefit from technology in many ways, such as using smart applications to facilitate our daily tasks, using smart devices to communicate with others with ease, and we can also benefit from technology to learn new skills online and improve our performance at work.k