

Are the problems that prevent the hearing system in the individual functions, or reduce the ability of the individual to hear the various voices, People with hearing loss have difficulty communicating, interacting and engaging in social activities, leading to many serious social problems including isolation, withdrawal, confusion, brain dysfunction, problems at work and problems with family members.