

the test results suggest that using technology in education can have a positive impact. This supports the idea that integrating technology into education can enhance teaching and learning outcomes.