Seeing this, the Kafirs realize that Dravot is not a god after all but only a man, and they immediately rebel. A few days later, he learns from the asylum superintendent that Carnehan has died of heatstroke. The narrator takes Carnehan to an asylum.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com