

this method is used for count of viable organisms .thus after incubation a count is made of colonies growing in and on the medium