

A young man mired in debts and creditors go after him. Meanwhile, a bank agent is looking for this actor to hand him the first award he is worthy of. The heirs of the actors deem they deserve the award more than him and they start to think that this young man who masquerades the actor is fraudulent. He had to masquerade as an actor who threw himself in the Nile committing suicide. He agrees with the heirs to get the cash.