market feasibility study is an analysis conducted to assess the viability of a new product, service, or business idea in a specific market.The study aims to identify potential customers, their needs, preferences, market trends, competition, and regulatory issues.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com