

With playful children's own interests drive the agenda. An adult provides the activities and objects and guides the children's engagement with the materials, but an aura of free choice pervades .