

The Interaction Hypothesis focuses on the fact that the context in which a learner exists has great importance, and therefore, the interaction between learners and others is the focus of attention.