

?This includes gathering data from various databases, applications, and online repositories. Whether you have the right mix/breadth (and skills depth) of domain experts, customers, analytic team, and project management to form an effective team ?Data characteristics: Structure, types, formats, scope, volume, velocity ?This step involves identifying potential data sources, both internal and external, that are relevant to the business problem at hand. They can seek help from domain experts.??????