

“Imagine a world where our oceans are no longer choked with plastic debris, where marine life thrives without the threat of entanglement or ingestion. This vision of a cleaner, healthier planet is within reach, but the question remains , do we have to ban plastic to make it a reality?”