

adverse effects on sediment-dwelling organisms are unlikely or would be expected only infrequently; in contrast, adverse biological effects are more likely to occur when the total trace metal concentration is above the SEL, PEC, or ERM (Long et al. 1995; MacDonald et al. 1996; Pataki and Cahill 1999).