

Different scientists use various systems of classification to organize all living things into groups.