

As for Maria, she returned from an island in Greece after helping in a turtle conservation project. Every summer, thousands of females lay eggs in the sand, but the problem is that tourists often destroy their nests. We patrolled the beach and told the tourists all about the turtles