As the rotor completes its rotation, the blades have to pass through aerodynamically dead zone which will result in lowering the system efficiency	