

It is possible to express a plant's concentration on technology by the international firms in a number of ways, such as the will to introduce new technology and many of the international firms are introducing the new strategies, the expectation of new technologies, the company's own technology, and cooperating with technology suppliers.