One of the first special effects used in motion pictures was discovered by accident While filming in the streets of Paris in 1896, Georges Melies's camera stopped and started again.