It is considered to be the connection of an electronic board, as it contains all the components of the computer, because its primary role is considered to be the components of the computer with each other, whether these components are hardware or software, and it also connects all of these components with each other and organizes and regulates the transfer of data later on, and it is Which carries out the process of defining the operating system with the components of the computer, and its sections are the type of subscription that must be used and the random memory (RAM) that can be installed in the computer. Therefore, it is considered the controller of the speed at which the computer operates according to the various components in it, from the processor and others, and after that, all those things that it gives The motherboard is considered the command and prohibition after you in giving the body its effects.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com