Making mistakes is a natural part of the human experience, and how we respond to them can shape our growth and development.When we realize we've made a mistake, it's common to feel a range of emotions, including embarrassment, frustration, or disappointment.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com