

Ending: Truman discovers that his entire life has been a tv show, and everyone around him are actors. In the end, he escapes from the fake world to the real one.