

The developmental approach: It is sometimes called the construction strategy, and its importance is due to the fact that the extension services provide a basis for ordinary people to achieve the increase and efficiency of the individual to the maximum extent possible.