

A fair reward system is one that operates in accordance with the principles of distributive and procedural justice.