

I think it's very important to protect yourself against online identity theft. For example my cousins social media account was hacked and the hacker asked her friends for money. In conclusion, I believe that that's why I strongly believe we should always protect our personal information and be careful online.