

Lack of marketing and branding efforts outside of the GCC region can make it difficult for consumers in other countries to recognize and request Oman chips when dining out or shopping for snacks.