

The Unified Process (UP) is a widely recognized object-oriented software development methodology. It is well-suited for this scenario due to its iterative, incremental, use-case-driven, and architecture-centric nature.