

Financial statements are a summary of the company's accounting operations, which are used by investors and company managers to understand the company's financial health, if you seek to understand the financial position of a company or project.