

Both treatments (traditional CPT and HFCWO) showed a significant improvement in some biochemical and functional respiratory tests as well as in the quality of life compared to the control group. In the HFCWO group a significant reduction of neutrophils percentage (p