

Miscommunication can lead to accidents at work when important information is not effectively conveyed or understood.