Ethics can be described as a branch in philosophy which involves defending, systematizing and lastly recommended concepts on right and wrong.The main concern of ethics is value.