

Special applications in rescue and military networks cannot rely on any pre-installed infrastructure, and in these cases ad hoc networks have been developed.