

In this experiment, the goal was to study the vernier scales using the vernier caliper and the micrometer. After calculating both volume and mass of all the objects, we used the density formula to figure out the density of every object. We used some objects to measure their density using the previously mentioned tools.