

Advanced features that are not necessary for the main purpose of the system.* Continuous maintenance and updates after the project is completed.* Advanced artificial intelligence or machine learning features.* Developing a separate mobile application if the project is designed as a web/desktop application.