People have always had the desire to look more beautiful and fashionable.In fact, since French fashions were so popular, American dressmakers used to change their names to French ones!