The malware is a computer software program maliciously developed to install on the computers without any consent of the users.