

Several protests have spread, whether outside or inside universities, and they have been directed at repression and arrest of a number of students, and of course these protests were against the war on Gaza and the Palestinians, and students have directed protest calls and camps inside and outside universities, demanding that companies investing in companies supporting and complicit in the war on Gaza stop or withdraw their investments from these companies. Some students in several places and several universities have set up green tents in Jackson Square, demanding that the city stop any cooperation with Israel. Finally, the support we have seen from the students proves that Gaza's voice and pain have reached the world despite the media blackout.
