

The choices of informative alleles are more limited in related donor–recipient pairs, as they are likely to share alleles. Unrelated donor–recipient pairs, on the other hand, will yield more options.