

What determines how language in particular country evolves and why is French for example so different from German?