Black-box testing is a method which tests system performance through external system assessment without any internal system code evaluation.The testing team recorded all defects found during testing and resolved them to enhance platform quality.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com