

Managing public safety during large-scale events such as the 2034 World Cup presents significant challenges, including efficient coordination between security personnel, medical teams, and authorities. There is a pressing need for a comprehensive solution that ensures real-time reporting, streamlined communication, and effective resource allocation to mitigate risks and maintain public safety in crowded areas.