

The main theme of the poem is loneliness, mystery, and unanswered communication. This shows how people sometimes try to connect with others--maybe people from the past, or even spirits--but feel alone and unheard. The poem also talks about the unknown--things we cannot see or understand, like death or lost promises.