

Accounting is the process of recording, classifying, and analyzing financial information related to economic transactions.