

Digital tools are central to L'Oréal's evolution from a product-centric company to a "digital beauty tech leader. Data + AI as a backbone — L'Oréal collects and leverages large customer and transaction datasets to inform product development, personalization, media-buying and inventory decisions. The company explicitly positions data at the heart of its Beauty Tech strategy.