

Many employers in the United States, Canada, England, Australia, and other countries require that you be able to speak English as part of the job.