

"Sorry you been waiting. 3 Oh, goodness" she said. "Oh, I'm ruined," he said. 'I'm in terrible shape.' 10 'Ah, the poor boy.' she said, 'Was it feelin' mizzable? Ah, and it came wat op here to meet me! You shouldn't have done that I'd have way up hede Ah, just think of it coming all the way up here when it's so sick!""I thought,' she said, 'that you were going to stay at the office and work late. You said you'd be working every night this week.' 30 di h 35 5 Yeah, I know,' he said. 'But it gave me the jumps, thinking about going down there and sitting at that desk. I went up to May's—she was throwing a party. Say, there was somebody there said they knew you.' she said. 'Man or woman?"Say, why haven't I been told soout her before?I haven't been here more than good,' he said. And take away those cakes. Do I feel terrible!" lump is fair That's "Ah," she said, 'you do?"Influenza!""Dame," he said. 'Name's Carol McCail. That's what I cail a girl.'I just got here myself, just about a second ago. I simply went ahead and ordered because I was dying for a cup of tea J'was late, myself. 'Hey, hey, easy on the sugar—one a minute.' enough. Terrible! 15 "Oh, that's all right," he said. off 20 "Why, that's just awful," she said. "Honestly?"
