

Poor communication among healthcare team members can have serious consequences, leading to medical errors, delays in treatment, decreased patient satisfaction, and even adverse outcomes.