

Two months ago, a boy was playing with his ball next to the street. Then, he followed the ball without focusing what is in the street. From the story, we learn that children should not play on the street and instead they should play in a gym to avoid such accidents. While he was playing, the boy kicked the ball strongly to the street. While he was running to the ball, a car hit the boy very strongly. The boy fell to the ground without moving. The car's driver got out of his car and rush to the boy to check him. He noticed that the boy did not move so he called 911. He asked for an ambulance to take the boy to the hospital. After that, the driver went to the hospital with the boy. In the end the boy lived, but with some broken bones. In the gym they will be safe and they also will enjoy more than playing on the street
