

The first and most essential factor is the accuracy of the diagnosis. A proper medical and psychological assessment is crucial before prescribing any medication.