

Due to its input-output impedance characteristics, the common base speaker course of action is greatly valuable in sound and radio recurrence applications as a current buffer to coordinate a low-impedance source to a high-impedance stack or as a single-stage speaker as portion of a cascaded or multi-stage setup